In the treatment of torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly, crusted, pimply, blotchy and scrofulous humours of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills have been wonderfully successful. Even the most obstinate of constitutional humours, such as bad blood, scrofula, inherited and contagious humours, with loss of hair, grandular swellings, ulcerous patches in the throat and mouth, sore eyes, copper-coloured blotches, as well as boils, carbuncles, scurvy, sties, ulcers and sores arising from an impure or impoverished condition of the blood, yield to the Cuticura Treatment, when all other remedies fail. And greater still, if possible, is the wonderful record of cures of torturing. disfiguring humours among infants and children. The suffering which Cuticura Remedies have alleviated among the young, and the comfort they have af-forded worn-out and worried parents, have led to their adoption in countless, homes as priceless curatives for the skin and blood. Infantile and birth humours, milk crust, scalled head, eczema, rashes and every form of itching, scaly, pimply skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, of infancy and childhood, are speedily, permanently and economically oured when all other remedies suitable for children, and even the best physicians, fail.

Western visitors to the capital consider it slow, even though it is one of the ideal show places of the country. Here are handsome and picturesque residences, beautiful, broad streets and avenues, trees and parks which rival the celebrated bols of Parls, and beyond all in point of interest for the visitor there are the many historical government buildings, including the magnificent congressional library building, which is without an equal in the world. All of these things delight the sight-seers who throng Washington, but they do not quite satisfy the energetic westerners, who want a little innocent amusement mixed with their education. The capital hasn't a summer theatre, nor a roof garden, nor any place where people can go for a treatment of the place is deadly dull, and as Puritanical in its methods as a New England village of a century ago. The city presents an inviting and profitable field for some enterprising purveyor of modern amusements.

London, May 23.—Major McBride, organizer of the Irish Transvaal brigade, in an open letter from Paris, has challenged John Redmond, Timothy Harrington and their friends to fight one or more duels in consequence of their attiture toward Mrs. McBride (formerly Maud Gonne) at the meeting of citizens held in Dublin on Monday night last in support of the Irish parliamentary fund, and which resulted in scenes of extreme disorder, owing to the presence of members of the Gaelic league, who are opposed to giving King Edward a friendly welcome on his coming visit to Ireland. Major McBride says:

"It seems that only the fact that my wife is a lady prevented Redmond and Harrington and their friends from dealing summarily with her. They evidently regret that it was not her husband who was present. Unfortunately I cannot go to Ireland at present, but in the meantime if any of them feel aggrieved at my wife's action, I shall be most happy to afford them satisfaction in this accommodating country, France."

Max Nordau, in nis "Degeneration," graphically pictures a grewsome state of the nervous conditions of the coming generations; but he gives no specific cause and offers no remedy. It is sought in this to elucidate some of the heretofore obscure yet prime causes that are wrecking the nervous systems and lives of today's civilization, and a remode is modestly suggested to the

and lives of today's civilization, and a remedy is modestly suggested to the reader.

Often our health and much of our lives are sacrificed to an improper use of vision. It may seem extravagant to attribute so much to the eyes; but it is the province of this article to show that it is a fact.

If you are tired or nervous, go to the window and for a few moments look window and for a few moments look off into the far distance. At the same time take note of the soothing, calming feeling that comes over your entire being. Then turn again to doing something that requires a close range of vision, and at once the nervousness will return. This is a simple, easy thing to do and may afford you much valuable information.

to do and may afford you much valuable information.

Business men, when tired, often close their eyes for a moment, as they have learned by intuition that it rests the entire system. The reason why closing the eyes has such a calming effect is because when they are closed one-third of the brain is for a time being shut off from work.

students sacrifice their health and fives in attaining an education, because of the brain strain sustained by the close use of the eyes.

With our present knowledge most of these evils can be avoided.

The wide difference as to health in and out of doors is well illustrated by calling to attention the farm women of Elonders, the fishwives of Leith, the calling to attention the farm with the Flanders, the fishwives of Leith, the slave woman who works on plantations. They are all as hardy and muscular as The athletic woman is stronger men. The athletic woman is strong or for being out of doors. Now, for a moment let us look at the converse side. class of diseases are due to it, and can be cured by removing the cause?" And a general answer, it seems, would meet this question. All diseases are emphasized or made worse by anything that irritates and depletes the nervous system, and naturally, any disease will be more or less relieved by correcting pervecusariain.

There is a remedy for those whose occupations are such that they cannot take advantage of open-air life, but are forced to continue at a close range of vision, which is to aid the vision so that when it is being used at a near point, the eyes have about the same adjustment as they would in looking over the open country, and consequently the brain would be as free from strain. The above statements are undoubtedly startling and a good reason ought to be given why such radical effect on the general system is to be attained. be given why such radical effect on the general system is to be attained through the medium of vision. The principal reason is this: More than one-third of the gray matter of the brain is utilized to perform the functions of the eyes, namely, the occipital lobe, large parts of the parietal and frontal lobes of the brain, also the third and fourth ventricles and aqueduct of Stylving deep in the middle base of the Sylvius, deep in the middle base of the
